THE REAL ESTATE REPORT

THE MOST POPULAR PROPERTY FEATURES FOR RESALE

These upgrades will spark joy in both you and future buyers

As the calendar turns to 2023, why not add your home to the list of improvements you want to make in this new year? Strategically chosen upgrades can not only improve your current quality of life, but also increase your future profit when you choose to sell. Here are some of the most popular buyer features trending now:

Laundry room

Coming up on nearly every list, it is evident that people want a separate room to do their laundry. Keeping the clutter isolated and having enough room to fold, hang and iron laundry are key. Adequate shelving and flat surfaces are also pluses.

Work smart

Like it or not, the pandemic changed the way we think about work, especially work from home (WFH). Garden offices are trending as people think of ways to improve their WFH situation. Having an office with a view, extra attention to functional storage, soundproofing and tech/internet accessibility are desirable.

Outdoor living

It's not just about curb appeal anymore, as people look for functional outdoor spaces to spend time in. Porches and patios are gaining popularity as ways to increase living space in a fresh air environment. Exterior lighting accents the attractive areas and increases security.

Walk right in

Walk-in pantries and closets are classics that continue to appear on many lists. The additional space and ability to clearly categorize and organize are features that will never go out of style.

Big Energy

Energy efficiency continues to be a byword, both to reduce costs and increase comfort when stuck indoors. Energy Star-rated appliances, windows and light bulbs are the expected norm for many buyers looking save on utility bills. Programmable thermostats and underfloor heating are big sellers for those chilly winter mornings and an efficient fireplace is always a draw (no pun intended).
